VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

The present Russo-Yugoslav controversy gains in intensity and worries many American citizens into seeing war as the possible outcome. What they perhaps forget is that conflict and rivalry in the Balkans is an old story, and that the stakes today are very high. Perhaps our younger generation diplomats are also a little hazy on past history, for it is reported that they are surprised at the violence of the verbal attacks hurled at Yugoslavia by the Kremlin. The surprise is said to be based on the belief by United States officials that Russia does not contemplate open physical violence against Tito, and that these verbal attacks are out of tune with Moscow's actual plans for Yugoslavia.

The violence of the attack should have been expected for some time. Russia wants Yugoslavia as a willing satellite to be used as a means of access to the Mediterranean. Since Yugoslavia shows strong resistance to Russian dictation, the present verbal

Students At Bathing Beach Pass Several
Water Safety Tests

With the termination of the swimming season at Pump's pond municipal bathing beach came the graduation last week of students from the beginner stage in swimming to the senior phase in life-saving.

The beginners, under the instruction of Henry Curry, assisted by guards Donald Whyte, Clark Otis and supernumerary guard Richard Kydd, learned to float on their backs, duck underwater, turn, swim distances without stopping, jump into deep water and dive. With the development of these aquatic skills, helpful hints were also offered, such as how to come to a sitting position from a float, and opening the eyes underwater. Many children attended beginner classes but not all attended test-

Punchard Football Candidates Out

Punchard High school's 1949 football candidates are practicing daily under the direction of Coach Walter C. Roberts for the official opening of the new season with Concord here Sept. 17.

Punchard faces a strong opponent for its first game, a team that has been undefeated for three years. In 1947 it romped over the local forces 51 to 0, but in 1948 it just eked out a victory by 6 to 0. No doubt they will be primed for the Blue and Gold for the opening of the season.

Among his candidates this year Coach Roberts has some promising ends and linemen. Among the former are Otis, Rayball, Brucato, Sullivan and Morrocco from which to choose. On the line Frederickson and Bob Prescott at tackles, Frank and Bob Brennan and John Calder guards, with centers Mauceri, Valz and McGrath shape up as likely material for a sturdy line. Others on the squad will be heard from before the first team is finally chosen.

Punchard's schedule: Sept. 17, Concord here; Sept. 24, Chelmsford away; Oct. 1, Danvers away; Oct. 8, Reading here; Oct. 14, Ipswich away; Oct. 22, Stoneham away; Oct. 29, Lexington here; Nov. 5, Open; Nov. 11, Methuen away; Nov. 24, Johnson here.

Public Schools Open Wednesday With Big Jump In Enrollment

Largest Opening Day Attendance
In Their History Expected With Greatest Gains In Lower Grades

The public schools will open Wednesday, Sept. 7 with what is expected to be the largest enrollment in their history.

From present indications there will be at least 1650 pupils in attendance on the opening day with large increases in the lower grades grades throughout the town.

To add to the school enrollment this year there will be a number of Boxford pupils attending Punchard High and the Junior High schools. They present no great problem, according to Kenneth L. Sherman, superintendent of schools, as they will be fairly evenly distributed into the seventh to twelfth grades.

The steady growth in child population will be noted mainly in the central grade schools where Miss Catherine M. Barrett, principal, expects a high enrollment of 440 pupils, an increase of 65 over the 375 pupils of last year.

"The high school expects approximately the same number as last year, 326," said Supt. Sherman. "The Junior High expects an increase due mainly to the 30 Boxford pupils which will give them 361 as compared to 321 of last year.

"The Shawsheen school will open with approximately 209 pupils as compared with 193 last year. The Indian Ridge school will open with 65 pupils, one more than last year. The Bradlee school will open with 136 pupils the

Will Leave This Month To Continue Studies In All Parts Of Country

September is the month when Andover's young people return to schools and colleges all over the country. Notwithstanding that Andover is particularly college and academy-minded it is still gratifying to note the increasing numbers of Andover people who attend schools and colleges of higher learning.

The following list of those returning to schools and colleges does not include those who are entering college as freshmen: Harvard: Gerwin Rohrbach, Jack Arabian, Donald Blackmer; Harvard Law: Jack Eastham; Harvard Business: William Eastham; Radcliffe: Helen Dowd, Marlon White, Genevieve Murray; Simmons: Jane Carol Black, Jane and Joan Draper, Carolyn White, Jocelyn.

Information For Veterans

Q—Will the Veterans Administration pay for my part-time training for the correction of a speech defect under Public Law 16?

A—Part-time training under Public Law 16 may be provided where the veteran's physical or mental condition is such as to preclude fulltime training and the training afforded may restore employability.

Q—When is a veteran training under Public Law 16 considered to be rehabilitated?

A—When the disabled veteran has completed his course under the law prescribed to prepare him for his employment objective and his employability is restored.

Q—I was honorably discharged from the navy and have received the Purple Heart, but I am not disabled. Can I receive any kind of compensation from the Government?

A—A holder of the Purple Heart is not entitled to compensation unless he has a disability rating of not less than ten percent. However, veterans who have the Purple Heart are entitled to certain advantages in civil service examinations and appointments. Detailed information on these advantages may be obtained from the U.S. civil service commission. In some states, also, Purple Heart holders are entitled to certain exemptions for real-estate assessment and taxation purposes. Information on this point can be obtained from local assessors.

Q—I understand there is a provision for reduced fares for Veterans Administration beneficiaries travelling at their own expense. Is this true?

A—Yes. Under certain circumstances requests for reduced fares may be issued upon railroad companies offering such fares where government transportation is not authorized.

Hold Vermont Men Under Heavy Bail

Wheeler street, near Phillips academy, with the intention of turning their car around, when the officers stopped them for questioning.

Officer O'Brien related the facts in the case to Judge John J. Darcy after the men had been arraigned. Roger Coburn pleaded guilty to carrying the revolver without a permit and with the other defendants pleaded not guilty to having burglars' tools in his possession.

Officers O'Brien stated that the defendant Couture was operating the auto, with Vermont registration owned by Ronald Coburn. The defendant Verge was sitting beside the operator and the other three men were in the rear. On searching the car the officer said he found a pinch bar, two screw drivers, two pairs of pliers and a jump wire which police allege is used in stealing automobiles. A .32 caliber automatic revolver loaded with four rounds of ammunition was also found in the car. Roger Coburn admitted owning the gun, Officer O'Brien said.

Officer O'Brien testified that the men said they left Vermont Wednesday and were in Lawrence Wednesday during the day and evening when they left for Cambridge to visit the mother of one of the men. The men admitted they had stolen automobiles in Lawrence, the officer stated.

The defendant Sheldon is on parole from state prison and one of the other defendants was out on $500 bail for breaking and entering and larceny in Vermont.

Local police notified Lawrence police of the men's arrest. Articles of wearing apparel, a camera, a hypodermic needle, two hunting knives and two pocket knives were found in the men's possession.

Lawrence police said they learned the men had stolen the camera, binoculars and hypodermic needle and had also drained gasoline from automobiles in the parking space at the Lawrence General hospital. Police allege the men admitted they had searched several other cars at the hospital but had taken nothing from them.

Police stated the men said they had planned to hold up a gasoline station either in Lawrence or Andover and admitted they had pawned some of the articles they had stolen from autos in Lawrence. Pawn tickets were found in the auto police allege.

During their questioning by Andover police the men are alleged to have admitted that they were getting rid of stolen articles at a place called the "Beehive" in Burlington, Vt. The men admitted they had pawned a camera in Cambridge, police said.

Ronald Coburn, Verge and Couture were each held under $10,000 bail and Sheldon was held under $15,000 bail.

Heavy Holiday Traffic Expected

the final long holiday period of 1949. Thousands will journey to their favorite weekend spots with their families and friends, while thousands of other motorists will add to Labor day travel congestion as they return to their homes from summer and vacation resorts, also carrying that most priceless of cargoes—human beings.

"Traffic conditions will be more difficult than ever before and will create greater hazards for both drivers and pedestrians.

"During the Labor day weekend of 1948, seven persons were needlessly slaughtered in highway accidents in Massachusetts, and every enforcement officer will be on duty to prevent a repetition of this wanton killing on our highways resulting from carelessness, inattention or other negligent and improper operation of motor vehicles.

"Particular attention will be directed to the control of unreasonable speed, cutting out of line or passing on hills where the view is obstructed, or recklessness in any form. Any driver found operating a motor vehicle after drinking will be removed from behind the wheel and all violators will be penalized.

"We also wish to emphasize that pedestrians must recognize their responsibility, and they must make every contribution to insure the complete success of this enforcement program.

"Parents are urged to exercise control of their children as a protective measure against accidental injury and death.

"We expect every citizen to cooperate and give complete support to our combined efforts to prevent highway congestion, disorder and loss of life over this holiday period.

"Remember: Highway safety is your business—and ours; it's a partnership!"

AT THE LIBRARY

The following books are recent additions to the Memorial Hall library's book collection:

Lead, Kindly Light; Gandhi and the Way to Peace Sheean

Vincent Sheean could find little in the contemporary Western World which gave him assurance that it would not end in ruin. In order to find a different clue to reality, Sheean went to India in 1947, which alone of all the great countries, he felt, was outside the main currents of materialism and to Gandhi. This book is the result of that visit and of its impact upon him. There are chapters on Hindu philosophy and on Gandhi's own beliefs with the author's conclusions on what Gandhi and his way of life can mean to the future of world peace in this atomic age.

In the Forests of the Night Riddell

The story of two Englishmen, inexperienced in photography and big game hunting, who set themselves the task of taking closeup photographs of African animals in their natural home and surroundings. An unusual book written in a very readable style. On the Christian Science Monitor reading list on Africa.

Iris in Winter Cadell

Iris goes to High Ambo to have a try at becoming a newspaper woman and to investigate conditions in a boys school there. She falls in love, quarrels with her brother, Robert and more or less intrudes upon her sister, Caroline who had gone there to find peace and quiet. An entertaining novel about human frailties. Readers of Margery Sharp will enjoy.

Jesse James Was My Neighbor Croy

Homer Croy grew up with the Jesse James legend as large as life everywhere about him. For this book he retraces the James boys' trail, talked to people who had known them—one man, even, who had robbed a train with them—examined old scrapbooks and clippings. The result is a fascinating piece of Americana.

Young William Washbourne Pakington

Another novel in the Pakington manner about a younger son, an officer in the Royal navy. The story spans the period from the death of Queen Victoria to Armistice Day, 1918. Readers of these ironic novels of English social life will enjoy this latest addition.

History of Europe Hayes

This volume is intended as a comprehensive and up-to-date text for introductory college courses in general European history.

Diplomatic Incident Kelly

A novel of intrigue which describes a Russian peace party to Washington and which revolves around John Wilson of the United States foreign service and his Soviet opposite number. A story of a diplomatic chess game in which the stakes are high.

Automotive Body and Fender Repairs Packer

The author presents what he considers the most practical and complete work on sheet metal.

Public Hearings Held By Board of Appeals

Four public hearings were held by the board of appeals recently with James H. Eastham, chairman, Roy E. Hardy, secretary, and Edward P. Hall being present.

The board granted the petition of Hilda Nartiff to convert a two-family house at 94 Maple avenue into a multi-apartment house with one change of a window for a bathroom.

The board granted the petition of the William H. Jowett heir to sub-divide property at the southeast corner of High st. and Walnut ave., resulting in lot areas of less than 8500 square feet, frontage of less than 75 feet, side yard less than 15 feet, and rear yards less than 30 feet. One change was made in a side yard of 10 feet.

One person opposed the petition of Willis P. Chick for permission to store lumber for commercial purposes on his property on Rattlesnake Hill rd. The board voted to view the site before making its decision.

The board also voted to view the site at "Lakeside" on Lowell st. where Henry E. Drolet asks permission to operate a roadside stand, as there were several opponents to the petition.

Fire Damages Auto In Mill Parking Lot

One automobile was badly damaged and two others slightly scorched by a fire that started early Friday morning in a car parked in the Marland mill parking space.

Box 54 at Main and Harding streets was sounded at 5:31 a.m. Engines 1 and 3 and the ladder truck responded and found a brisk blaze in the car owned by George Ferguson, 135 Lawrence st., Methuen.

Two other automobiles close by, one owned by Joseph N. Houde, 5 Franklin ave., Andover, and the other by Lionel Caron, 19 Broadway ave., Lawrence, were slightly damaged by the flames.

Firemen made short work of the blaze, believed to have been started from a short circuit. The relief was sounded at 6:10 a.m.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

PUNCHARD'S FINE RECORD

Announcement that 42 percent of this year's Punchard High school graduates will continue their education at institutions of higher learning must be most gratifying to every individual member of the school faculty.

Equally pleasing is the report that all of the students of the 1949 class who applied for admission to advanced institutions have been admitted, the majority of them being enrolled in degree-granting colleges and universities.

A noteworthy factor in the college enrollment is the number of entering students who have won scholarships. Not only were students at the head of the class honored by awards but a wide cross-section of the class prominent in extra-curricular activities was also represented.

The number of recent graduates planning to enter advanced institutions this fall is an increase of eight percent over the 1948 class continuing academic work.

The records are highly significant and speak well for the whole school system which for years has been outstanding among the schools of the state.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC

Another three-day holiday comes over the Labor day weekend and law enforcement officials are calling upon the public to observe more than ordinary caution in traffic so that they will not be killing and maiming each other on the highway.

Under normal conditions traffic will be heavy with returning vacationists and weekend pleasure seekers plying between home and recreation spots. Inspectors from the registry of motor vehicles and officers of various police departments will be doing their utmost to have autoists comply with all traffic regulations.

Special appeals are being made to motorists to be patient with holiday congestion and move in orderly lines; to bicycle riders to stay off crowded thoroughfares and to keep in single files; and to pedestrians to cross streets only at intersections and at the right time.

Much emphasis is placed upon the safety slogan "The life you save may be your own," but despite various warnings there will be those who for the sake of gaining a few seconds will take chances and imperil not only their own lives but the lives of others.

If all of us will just make up our minds to take a little more care and to give the other fellow a break over this holiday, the papers Tuesday morning will have fewer gruesome details of holiday accidents to record.

VETERANS' HOUSING

One of the most heartening signs noted in the actions of the Andover Housing authority in its task of providing new homes for veterans is its insistence upon getting a good contractor to do the work and its equal insistence upon getting a competent man to represent it on the site while the job is being done.

Both cropped out at its meetings during the past week. As a result, the authority feels sure that in the Benoit Construction Co. of Lynn it has secured a firm of high repute to erect the 12 buildings of 56 housing units at a bid about $70,000 lower than its nearest competitor.

It further showed its determination to do a good job for the town when it sent out notice that it was looking for a man familiar with plans and specifications and experienced in the supervision of building construction to work on the site under supervision of the architect, Clinton Foster Goodwin.

One of the main reasons for going after a high class man for this job is that complaints are being heard from many quarters about the poor condition of some of the earlier veterans' housing projects erected shortly after the war. Hasty work and poor materials played their part, but the worst offender was lack of proper inspection.

The housing authority knows that the people of Andover are vitally interested in this project. Townspeople voted to change the zoning laws to allow the erection of the multiple-type housing on the Morton street site. Now they want to see that good buildings are erected, suitable living quarters provided for the occupants, and a complete development that will be in keeping with the high standards of the town.

This seems to be just what the Andover Housing authority is determined to get.

war is not surprising. What Russian plans are can be guessed. Moscow means to keep her one-time satellite within her sphere. Whether she means to go as far as war is very doubtful indeed.

The "Tinder-Box" of Europe

Trouble in the Balkans is not new. For generations the area has been a checker-board on which European nations have persistently tried to move the pawns. Balkan peoples have for centuries not only fought each other bitterly but have resented outside interference even while using it for temporary personal advantage. Great Powers have tried to get what they could at each other's expense. Before World War I, Austria, Russia and Italy meddled in Balkan affairs and precipitated that conflict. That same area was again the pawn of Europe when war came in 1939. The present situation is not at all new, although it is not occasioned principally by the rivalry of Great Powers in the Balkans. No large nations are struggling to make political capital by stirring up Balkan rivalries. As far as we are concerned, the Iron Curtain was drawn down this side of Yugoslavia's western frontier years ago. When World War II ended, communism was dominant in the Balkans, and we might be pardoned for excusing it we assumed that communism would cement the Balkans solid.

Yugoslav Communism vs. Nationalism

Perhaps we thought a crack might appear some time, but it has come sooner than most of us anticipated. Unless we remembered the Soviet claims to control communism everywhere. Most probably Russia did not expect trouble so soon. Tito is a good son of communism, well trained in Moscow and as tough and ruthless as his one-time masters. Tito simply took advantage of Russia's support to make himself communist dictator. In so doing, he made enemies of his non-communist countrymen. But Russia has now forced many of those citizens into Tito's camp in protest to Russia's intention of control that country completely. While Tito may still antagonize some of his people by his communist dictatorship, he is shrewd enough to win general support by his criticism of Russia's "Tsarist" methods of foreign policy and diplomacy.

What the present name-calling indicates is that Russia is losing a satellite and is afraid of losing more. So Moscow is trying the old game of scaring a people into toeing the line. The blasts in Moscow papers, the massing of troops near the Yugoslav borders, and other typical cold-war tactics are designed to scare the Yugoslavs into a choice between heaving out Tito or facing war with Russia.

Importance of Yugoslavia to Russia

The stakes are even bigger than Russian control of Yugoslavia. For if that Balkan country were completely subservient to Moscow then Russia would be in a first-class position to control Albania, get influence in the Adriatic, and have ready access to the Mediterranean. Thwarted in her attempt to get at that sea through Greece and Turkey, she now sees her potential access via Yugoslavia slipping away fast.

Russia has several alternatives in dealing with Yugoslavia. She can cut her losses and try elsewhere. But this would be hard to swallow. Other Balkan nations, uneasy under the Russian yoke, might try to slip out from under. Doubtless an independent Yugoslavia would be very willing to consolidate her position by getting allies against Russia.

Or Cut Off Economic Ties

Another alternative is to cut off all trade between Yugoslavia and Russia and Russian satellites. This has already started. It has harmed Tito's country but is driving her to seek trade agreements with the West. Russia doesn't like that result of her boycott. That action could be looked at two ways. Either it is the least Russia can do, or else she is playing a far deeper game than we realize and is setting up this episode as a

MEET—

MISS MARJORIE STEARNS

As a landscape architect, Miss Marjorie Stearns has earned an enviable reputation among garden lovers and landscape architects in Andover as well as abroad and in many parts of this country.

A true love for gardening and hunting for wild flowers in the mountains in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont gives Miss Stearns many hours of pleasure yet she finds time to give short courses in garden planning and planting to home owners.

In addition to these activities which she classifies as hobbies Miss Stearns has been a practicing landscape architect for six years and has taken innumerable courses at leading architectural colleges throughout the country and in England to keep abreast of modern trends and ideas.

A resident of Andover all her life except for her three and one-half years abroad, Miss Stearns was educated at Punchard High School, Lowthorpe School of Landscape Architecture, Groton; Ambler School of Horticulture for Women, Ambler, Pa.; and Studley College of Horticulture and Agriculture for Women, Studley-Warwickshire, Eng.

At present Miss Stearns resides with her father at 12 Locke st.

means of convincing the United States that Tito and Russia are bitter enemies, thus inducing us to send aid to Yugoslavia. Such aid could eventually be diverted to Russian use. This possibility is not so extreme as it might at first appear. For it must be remembered that morals and ethics aren't involved. The two dictatorships are concerned with expediency only. And if we can today calmly contemplate exporting a $3,000,000 steel mill to communist Tito, it is not impossible for Tito and the Kremlin to decide later that they really have no basic difference of opinion. If this is their game then it is a deep one. But the stakes are fantastically high and worth almost any gamble.

Or Use the Greek Formula

But assuming that the rift between the two is not bluff, then Russia has a third alternative. She can attempt insurrection within Yugoslavia and encourage neighboring satellites to start trouble along the lines of the Greek rebellion. There could then develop what Russia could call an "act of intolerable provocation," which would bring in Bulgaria (an old enemy of the Yugoslav peoples), Hungary and Labania into a joint war against the "aggressor." The danger is that Yugoslavia is far better prepared for war than the others and would probably make short work of the attackers. And the unknown quantity is the West. The United States could regard such a conflict as a civil war behind the Iron Curtain, and stay out of it. Or we could see it as the first act of open aggression headed our way.

It is very doubtful that Russia wants to take the risk of real war now. The verbal attacks and various forms of squeeze will continue. Russia may take a page from past history by keeping out of war herself and attempting to get through Tito's back door by reviving the old Balkan rivalries. It's a fair guess that, short of war, Russia will do anything to prevent the Balkan satellites from breaking away.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago—September, 1899

Two hundred members of the Poor-Poore family hold enjoyable meeting at the South church.

Some 350 pleasure seekers attend union picnic of Andover, Dracut and Tewksbury granges at Haggetts pond and enjoy dinner, sports and dancing.

The brick wall enclosing town land next to the fire station is now complete and part of the yard is being roofed over.

A large 25-pound snapping turtle captured in Ballardvale by Pat Scott is turned over to Chief Mears.

Andover Townsman cricket team defeats Andover Seconds 37 to 31.

Two fierce fires tax town fire department. Waldo homestead on Boston turnpike destroyed; firemen handicapped by hard up-hill run and fact that they have to lay 3000 feet of hose to get stream on blaze. Bucket brigade waters roof of nearby house occupied by Henry and Fred Gould. Few days later fire in center district destroys three buildings known as Mansion House stables owned by P.A. trustees, and barn owned by Ira B. Hill, located on Chapel avenue. Takes engineers, with liberal use of kerosene borrowed from neighbors, 13 minutes to get up steam in engine. New fire engine needed, we say editorially.

Tree lovers will get satisfaction, we decare, over fines imposed by Judge Stone on three linemen of telephone company who recently cut trees in No. Andover about as they pleased.

Closing of summer play school brings word of appreciation for Supt. Johnson and his assistants who have made it such a success.

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT... Of the 39 offices of the Massachusetts division of employment security distributed throughout the state, all but two by early August showed a lightening in the unemployment claim load. The median decline in unemployment was 23%, compared with the high for each place earlier this year... The greatest improvement appears in Boston and its nine nearby cities, but Worcester district was a close second and the district north of Boston a good third... The six offices showing a drop of 40% or more in unemployment claims were: Hyannis 77%, Gloucester 76%, Marlborough 63%, Waltham 48%, Haverhill 41% and Northampton 40%... Gypsy moths have been practically eliminated on Cape Cod this summer by spraying from airplanes, a method that seems likely to be extended to the whole state... Notwithstanding the drought, the August 1 crop indications in Massachusetts point to 10,115,000 pounds of tobacco, 23% above the 10-year average; 3,300,000 bushels of apples, 33% over the average; 525,000 tons of hay, 8% under the average and 2,397,000 bushels of potatoes, 20% under the 10-year average... The oldest state paper in existence relating to Massachusetts is thought to be the first patent or charter given the Pilgrims by the Council for New England in London in 1621. The original is held by the Pilgrim society in Plymouth, but a copy may be seen at the Massachusetts Historical society's museum in Boston.

Varied Attractions For Topsfield Fair

The list of special anniversary attractions at the Topsfield fair's 125th birthday exposition, Sept. 4-10, is almost as impressive as the main programs of past years.

Thus, such headline features as thoroughbred running horse races with pari-mutuels every afternoon, Monday through Saturday, and the famed Sally Rand and her "Glamour Girls' Revue" will have to vie for the attention of spectators with a wide range of added highlights, ranging from monster fireworks displays to championship Essex county firemen's hose-laying contests.

Other innovations will be a daily sportsman's show with free stage performances; 4-H Club and youth tractor contests; championship horse-pulling competition; liberation of 1000 racing pigeons; elaborate boy scout demonstrations by the North Shore council; daily home deep freeze demonstrations; a novel apple pie contest; auction sales of beef, sheep and swine; daily organ console concerts, and demonstration of the operation of an amateur radio station.

How about a farewell-to-summer picnic in the country or 'round the house? And what better place to choose the pick of picnic goodies than your favorite shopping place and mine—our A&P! With the long Labor Day weekend coming, stock up on these labor-saving, budget-saving buys.

CHIP CHIP HURRAY!

When a picnic's no chore, I enjoy it more, and that's one reason why JANE PARKER POTATO CHIPS rate a special spot in any picnic basket. These fresh, flaky-thin filler-uppers are ready to serve—and really good, because they're made from specially selected potatoes, with only pure vegetable shortening.

DOUBLE TREAT

Serve this two-tone ice cream for an end-of-summer party. It tastes doubly good because it's made with both Vanilla and Chocolate flavors of ANN PAGE SPARKLE ICE CREAM MIX. Buy them both at your A&P. Prepare as package directs. Freeze separately to a mush. Whip each. Pile in one freezing tray by alternate spoonfuls. Draw a spoon through several times to "marble." Freeze. Makes 8-10 portions of delicious, velvety-smooth ice cream.

FLAVOR PERFECT LIFT!

Make tea double strength with NECTAR or OUR OWN TEA or TEA BAGS. Pour into ice tray of your refrigerator, add sprig of mint to each cube. At picnic packing time, fill one thermos with frozen tea cubes, another with cold tea. Combine them when the crowd's ready for a refreshing drink. You'll say, "Best iced tea for me!" when you try these famous A&P Teas—and you can save up to 15c on a pound.

same as a year ago, and the West Center will open with the same number of 64. These are only tentative figures, as many parents bring their children for registration the first day of school.

There will be few changes in personnel, according to Supt. Sherman. The resignation of Milton H. Nelson, principal of the Junior High school, leaves a vacancy. However, Supt. Sherman will take the responsibility of the Junior High school and has appointed Benjamin F. Dimlich as acting sub-master. Mr. Dimlich has been associated with the Andover Junior High school for the past 14 years and has always been of great assistance to the principals in charge.

Mrs. Helen Phillips has been transferred from the West Center to the first grade in the Jackson school. Miss Barbara J. Bolton, elected last spring as a teacher in the Junior High school is well known there because of the fact that she taught for several months as a substitute for Miss Ida Grover. Miss Bolton comes to Andover after much experience at Black Island and Wrentham. Her home is in Wrentham.

The high school staff will be increased by the addition of Miss Jenne T. Bernadin, who will teach in the commercial department. She comes to Andover well recommended after two years of experience in the West Rutland, Vt. high school. Her home is in Lawrence.

Mrs. Margaret R. Cronin will go to the West Center school. Mrs. Cronin formerly taught for many years in Methuen. She is the widow of William Cronin of Summer st.

The school buildings have been cleaned and repaired during the summer. The John Dove school, which had previously been abandoned, but because of the increased enrollment three rooms are now being used on the first floor.

Applications Light Veterans' Dividend

World War II veterans of Andover made no great rush to fill out their applications for National Service Life Insurance Dividends.

Veterans' organizations in the town opened their headquarters Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights to give out blanks and assist those who wanted to have theirs filled out. At the V.F.W. about 100 were assisted during the three evenings and at the Legion about 75 made them out.

Francis P. Markey, Veterans Service Officer, had about 200 applications for blanks at his office and about 50 more were distributed at the Post Office.

At a pretty ceremony solemnized Saturday at 3 o'clock in St. William's church, Tewksbury; Miss Mildred C. Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gray, of Maple st., Tewksbury, became the bride of Peter Walent, son of Mrs. Stephanie Walent, Center st., Ballardvale. The Rev. Fr. McCarlin of St. Williams Church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attractive in a gown of marquisette with a satin bodice and a long train. A 12-foot veil with a three inch border of lace fell from a heart-shaped crown of seed pearls. She carried a mother of pearl prayer book with a white orchid and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Marjorie Feehan, of Lowell, a friend of the bride, wore a gown of lavender marquisette and the bridesmaids, Miss Marion Demers, sister of the bride and Miss Barbara Stravos, friend of the bride of Lowell, were similarly gowned in off-the-shoulder Nile green and yellow marquisette. Wearing matching headpieces they carried old-fashioned bouquets. Ring-bearer was Joseph Baker, Jr., nephew of the bride of Dorchester. Flower-girl was Miss Gloria Lawrence, niece of the bride of Ballardvale and the best man was Harry Wrigley, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Ballardvale.

Miss Stella O'Neill was organist and soloist and sang "Mother At Thy Feet Is Kneeling."

The bride's mother wore a green and white print dress, a green hat and a corsage of red roses for her daughter's wedding and the bridegroom's mother was attractive in a blue dress and hat. She wore a corsage of red roses.

Following a reception held at the Centerville social club, Lowell, at which guests were present from Andover, Lowell, Lawrence, Ballardvale, Wilmington, Dorchester and White river junction, Vt., the couple left on a wedding trip to Maine and Canada after which they will reside at 4401 High st., Lowell after Sept. 5.

The bride is a graduate of Tewksbury grammar school and Lowell High school. The bridegroom graduated from Mexico, Me. grammar school and Rumford, Me. High school and served four years in the navy as first class radio engineer. In 1945 he attended the capital radio engineering institute at Washington, D. WINDHAM PLAYHOUSE

Having opened to a thrilled audience last Tuesday at the Windham Playhouse, the famous psychological drama "Rope" by British playwright Patrick Hamilton who also authored "Gaslight," will continue at the popular summer theatre through Saturday Sept. 3. It is one of the most gripping plays on the English speaking stage and in singing the praises of the author, N. Y. Times' Brooks Atkinson said, "He understands the horrors and never strays outside the ballwick of dark, soft-footed nervousness."

For the closing attraction at the Windham Playhouse Producer A. Everett Austin has selected one of the most novel and unusual plays to come from the pen of Jean-Paul Sartre, the most talked of French playwright. "No Exit" will be presented at Windham Playhouse near Cobbett's pond evenings Tuesday Sept. 6 through Saturday Sept. 10.
